Praying for you all. I know this is a hard time for you all. I will always carry her in my heart. Your Mom My dear sister never met a stranger. Always smiling when i come out to visit her. Life won't be the same without her. I can't pick up a phone and say sis it's me. Rest In Peace my beloved sister. I love you.

Anyone that knows me, also knows I'm a jokester. When I was 14 I was busy chatting on the phone with my friend Danica and mom told me to get off the phone and get my brothers clothes from their room so she could wash them. I went to get the clothes probably saying bad words under my breath. Well I picked up the clothes and found a life like fake tarantula. Ok if you know me well, you know I probably urinated myself. I had to get mom too. I took the spider and stuffed it in the inside out pant leg. I grinned all the way down the hall to the laundry room. I was greeted by mom in the room and she got onto me for not turning the pants right side out. I watched as she had a plastic hanger in one hand and used the other to pull the pant leg out. Out popped the spider and landed right on her chest, she screamed and started hitting her chest with the hanger. I was cackling so hard I couldn't breathe! She soon realized it was fake and then it was my turn to get whacked with the hanger. So worth it! We talked about this prank over a lot of family meals. Miss you mom!
